MISSOULA---

The University of Montana men's track team turned in some good performances in their own Montana Invitational-Harry Adams Relays track meet this past Saturday. The Grizzlies will prepare this week for the UM Co-ed meet at Dornblaser Stadium. Montana State and Eastern Washington State College will bring men and women contingents to Missoula for the competition.

The Grizzlies picked up five firsts in the non scoring affair. Great Falls freshman Bill Halverson turned in one of the meet's top performances in the pole vault with a 16-1 jump. The vault easily surpassed the three-year old mark by a foot and an inch. It also tied Halverson's personal best set earlier this season indoors.

Other firsts were won by Scot Ferda in the high hurdles with a time of 14.6, Dave McDougall in the three mile in a 14:25.6 clocking, Tom McIntyre with a 46-9½ effort in the triple jump and the mile relay team. The quartet of Mike Andrews, Ed Wells, Joh Roys and Stan Kerr lowered the meet record a half-second to 3:13.8.

Second place finishes were turned in by Dean Erhard in the mile, Monty Solberg in the javelin, Tim Fox in the high hurdles, Steve Morgan in the high jump and Kurt Jacobsen in the long jump.

The Adams Relays segment of the competition, for Montana prep tracksters, was won by defending class AA track champions, Great Falls High. The Bison outdistanced Billings West, 77-55½. Thirteen Montana high school teams were represented.

"It was a typical Montana Invitational-Harry Adams Relays for our squad," Head Coach Harley Lewis commented. "We experimented somewhat and approached it differently than we would a normal scoring meet. It's a fun meet for us and also provides an opportunity for me to see where we are, at this point."

Lewis said a very hard series of workouts last week had some effect on the UM team performance. "Due to our very hard workouts during the week, our athletes were stiff and sore. We ran a bit heavy-legged and did not perform as well as we are capable of performing. However, I am pleased for the most part with where we are," Lewis said.

Bill Halverson turned in the best quality effort for us in the pole vault. I was also pleased with our mile relay performance. Scot Ferda and Tim Fox did very well running one-two in the high hurdles with times of 14.6 and 14.8," Lewis said.

This Friday, the Grizzly men and women host their counterparts from Montana State and Eastern Washington State College at the UM Co-ed meet. Lewis said he'll approach this competition differently than last week's.

"Since this is a scoring meet, we won't experiment as we did last weekend. MSU is vastly improved and has some fine athletes on the squad. EWSC is the class of the Evergreen Conference and they have numerous outstanding athletes. Last year we barely beat them here, so I expect a highly competitive meet."

Competition gets underway at 3 p.m. Friday, April 15th at Dornblaser Stadium.
